

Do you want a cleaner and more responsive engine ?

There is a new service available to car owners called Terraclean that was developed in Canada. In less than one hour the whole induction system to the exhaust is cleaned without any dismantling of parts. For technical details and an endorsement from Ed China of TV's "Wheeler Dealers" visit the website :

Does it work I hear you ask, sounds too good to be true. Exactly what I thought, so I put it to the test. Many members will know my car a 1999 1.8s with 53k on the clock. I have owned the car for almost 7 years and it has 10 service stamps so I was sceptical as to any improvement as it has been very well maintained.

Well after the procedure I was amazed at the difference in performance. The engine was more responsive and revved a lot easier. It really was noticeable and I would expect mpg to improve also.
